

Popular Wedding Favors

It is often the case that the simplest part of something, often takes the longest to arrange; wedding favors can be one of those. As a rule of thumb when organizing events, keep things simple as they have a habit of becoming complicated without any human intervention. There is no longer any need to get stressed about what favors you intend to use with the large range available these days it should make your decision easier and take less time.

If all other options fail you can always choose the easy wedding favor of flowers which can also decorate the reception at the same time. The preparation for flowers is almost non-existent other than deciding on what flowers to use which can be ordered reasonably close to the big day.

A symbol of love, the red rose is one of the more popular choices and they do not require much preparation. You can simply purchase one for each guest and have a member of the catering staff, a friend or family member place one rose across each place setting after the tables have been set for the wedding reception.

Unfortunately flowers do not appeal to everyone, but with three in every four receptions using candy, this is an easy wedding favor that will. If you prefer, there is an even easier method to give candy which can also save money at the same time. This can be accomplished by using large bowls filled with different types of candy as the centerpieces on each table.

You can then provide each wedding guest with a small bag and a note encouraging them to enjoy the candy in the centerpiece. This really is easy because each guest can choose whatever candy they like and there isn't a single piece of wrapping paper in sight.

Although candy is popular, you may wish to give your guests a picture frame which is longer lasting and more useful. The only problem with giving photo or picture frames as a wedding favor is when you have to wrap each picture frame individually. If you use the frames to hold the place cards however, this will solve that problem as wrapping paper will not be necessary.

Another easy wedding favor option to end this article is to arrange for a professional photographer to attend the wedding reception and take a photo of every couple as they arrive looking their best.

All the photographer needs to do is to have a printer with him so he can give each guest their photo before they leave later in the day. This is a great idea for a wedding favor because your guests will likely be dressed up and will appreciate the opportunity to pose for a professional photo. As a little extra you could ask the photographer if he could bring along a small projector and have a slide show during the reception when guests can see the photos he has taken.
